A little information about museums and galleries. Today there are a lot of organizations which help people to know all the masterpieces of great artists, architects and sculptors. It is important and vital to have museums and galleries because people should know world famous paintings, sculptures and so on. The main aim of this report is to collect data on English museums and galleries and to compare the number of attendance of them.

According to data in chart, I can say that the number of attendance changes a year to year. It is not permanent. The lowest number of attendance has Tate Gallery of England. There were 0,9 million visitors in 2013 year. In 2015 there were 1,9 million people but in 2017 year it grew to 2,2 million people. The highest number of attendance has British Museum. There were from two to five million people since 2013 year to 2017 year.

The Science Museum's attendance became less in 2015 then in 2013 year. The Natural History Museum's attendance became less in 2015 then in 2013 year too. It seems that people found the substantial instead of them.

I suppose that it is important to have attendance. The museum boards of directors should have respectively attitude to visitors. It appeal on rate of number of attendance. Also, they should make better the advertisement of this museums and galleries.

In conclusion, I would say that people draw on the information which they get in museums and galleries. It is so important to give information which has a high quality.
