Alarming information.

Museums and galleries are important places for people attendance in any country. All travellers and people who interested in the history of city and just want to broad their minds go there. But the recent research is showing not a substantial fact. Nowadays people are less attend history and science museums than it used to be.

Data.

Social statistics are controversial in some ways:

- 1) British Museum, Natural History Museum, Science Museum have lost 1 million visitors together during only 2 years.
- 2) National Gallery and Tate Gallery has increased their visitors for 3,4 mln since 2013.

However statistic is getting worse...

- 1) From 2013 to 2015 the number of visitors in British Museum has increased for 2,5 millions of visitors whereas from 2015 to 2017 it is only increased for 0,5 millions.
- 2) The number of visitors of National Gallery has grown up for 3,4 millions during 2 years.

Recommendations

Nowadays we can get all kinds of information just by the Internet but this knowledge will not be complete. More memorable and full way is going to museums and galleries. There are some ways to attract a lot more people. First of all, Natural History and Science museums can cancel their admission charges or just decrease them. Furthermore, the Internet can be a friend for museums and galleries. I mean they can create their pages on social nets. A lot of people will notice it.

In the end.

Taking into consideration different facts, I hope people will be more interested in museums and galleries as it was some year's ago.
