Since the internet technologies became more common, the foreign people's interest in culture of different countries had risen a lot. Great Britain is obviously included in top most visited places. But speaking about attendance of its museums and galleries we should be more objective. Here is some recommendations for the museum board of directors which could be useful in increasing people's attendance.

пункт.

To start with, I would like to introduce the average attendance rate of 5 most famous England's museums and galleries. In 2013 this number was about 2.78 mln people, in 2015 it rised up to 2.84 mln but in 2017 it drew on to the 3.22 visitors. This shows us how people's attendance have been respectively rising for 4 years. No doubt, the most famous museum is British. It has the most high attendance rate according to 2017 data.

What makes it so popular? Comparing to Tate Gallery, Natural History Museum or Science Museum it has better results. More than twice British Museum' and National Gallery's attendance are higher than these three ones. However, if we look at 2013 data we will see that National Gallery has a 0.1 (difference with) British museum. But in 2017 the situation is completely different. Now British museum (appears) seems to appeal visitors more.

To score results as a British museum you could make more exhibitions, discounts for students or elder people and even improve online booking system which will make the process of buying a ticket more effective.

In conclusion I would say that people's desire for knowledge are quite substantial and should be encouraged with different ways.
